Gasch Printing Expands Services to Offer Comprehensive Book Warehousing and Fulfillment for Publishers

ODENTON, MD – (November 12, 2025) — Gasch Printing, a leading short-run digital book printer serving publishers across North America, today announced the expansion of its services to include full-service book warehousing and order fulfillment. The new offering gives publishers a single source for printing, storing, and shipping their books, saving them time and money, reducing inventory risk, and shortening the time it takes to deliver a well-printed book to their customers.

With this enhancement, publishers can have their books printed, stored, and shipped directly from Gasch Printing's secure, climate-controlled facility. The service includes automated order integration with popular e-commerce platforms, enabling online orders to be routed directly to Gasch for fast pick-and-pack. Real-time inventory reporting, delivery tracking, and complete order history are available through an easy-to-use online service portal.

"Publishers are being asked to do more with tighter timelines and smaller teams," said Doug Gasch, owner of Gasch Printing. "Our fulfillment service removes the logistical burden of storage and shipping so publishers can focus on what they excel at—creating and promoting great books. We're proud to offer a solution that pairs the reliability of our printing operation with efficient, automated distribution."

Gasch Printing's fulfillment program includes:

- Orders Automatically Exported to Gasch
  - Including E-Commerce integration
- Pick, Pack & Ship
  - Orders are processed within 24 hours
- Free "Inbound" Freight
  - Books printed at Gasch are stored on site, eliminating the cost and time of shipping books to the warehouse.
- Real-Time Visibility
  - Track orders, shipping, and inventory in one place
- Lean Inventory Management
  - Short-run printing combined with automatic replenishment
- Worldwide Shipping

The service is designed especially for traditional book publishers, university presses, associations, and independent content producers who need reliable distribution without managing their own warehouse operations.

"For many of our customers, fulfillment has been a persistent challenge—too complex, too time-consuming, or too expensive to manage internally," said Gasch. "By keeping printing and fulfillment under one roof, we reduce handling costs, speed delivery, and provide a seamless end-to-end experience."
